

Youth Development Officer – Prof. Dr. Arne Feddersen

Arne Feddersen is an associate professor in the Department of Environmental and Business Economics at the University of Southern Denmark (Campus Esbjerg). He holds a Ph.D. from University of Hamburg. His research interests include sports economics, applied regional economics, and media economics. The main focus of his research in the field of sports economics has been the regional economic effects of sporting events, the economics of demand for sports (stadium and TV), and sports betting. He has published articles in the field of sports economics in several books, conference volumes and peer-reviewed journals including Labour Economics, Contemporary Economic Policy, Journal of Sports Economics, and International Journal of Sport Finance.