

Ph.D. student representative – Anika Müller-Kock

Anika Müller-Kock is a Ph.D. student at the Ilmenau University of Technology in Ilmenau/Germany. In her thesis she studies different forms of competition on sports markets with the main part focusing on motorsport markets with chapters about the general design of the market for motorsport centers and the willingness to pay of fans for motorsport events. Her wider research interest also includes the legal aspects of doping in different sports as well as the UEFA Financial Fair Play.