

Ph.D. student representative – Svenja Feiler

Svenja Feiler is a researcher at the Department of Sport Economics and Sport Management at the German Sport University in Cologne. She holds a diploma degree in Business Administration and a Master degree in Sport Management (M.Sc.). She is doing her PhD on the various funding sources for voluntary sports clubs. Since 2011, she is responsible for managing a large-scale panel study on nonprofit sports clubs in Germany, the Sport Development Report. Her main research interests are nonprofit sports organisations, finances of nonprofit sports clubs, and sport development. She has published in peer-reviewed journals including European Sport Management Quarterly, Voluntas, Journal of Sport and Social Issues and International Journal of Sport Finance.